THIS I BELIEVE

By
John E. Fetzer

In this presentation I speak only as a layman. I am not addicted to church activity although I have had exposure to strong fundamental religious teaching and have a long line of ancestral “believers” dating to the time of the Christian Crusade.

While it is my view that there is a crying need, the World over, for a new concept concerning the extra terrestrial order of things in relation to individual spiritual needs, this is in no sense a Cause Celebre. Here I simply try to state my concept, as a partial approach to this need, without making any attempt whatsoever to prove my thesis. There is far too much confusion in the average mind between “logic” and “credibility” for me to undertake such an onerous task. In the end you either do or do not believe, based upon your environmental past or your absorption-quotient to spiritual ideas, whether new or old.

Of this I am sure, the utter contempt for status quo in the World today is symptomatic of a new force which is influencing the mass mind, either for good or evil, depending upon the understanding of and the use to which that force is employed. I am equally sure that there is a new race of thinkers coming on with Herculean strides. They are ready and willing to break with the past and join a move in keeping with the “new view.” Many of these are bracing themselves for the interplanetary environment. These are the ones who recognize that soon we may be confronted with a brand-new set of facts which may rock the very foundation of scientific and theological principles as we have customarily known them. Indeed, a one-world exigency may be thrust upon us, requiring the acceptance of a completely new age of being.

Therefore, without hesitation I would like to state my case simply and directly with the hope that some wisdom and philosophical coordination will evince itself in the human equation.

It is my view that scientific and spiritual forces find initial unification in the cosmos of outer space. Our planetary universe was created over ten billion years ago, probably from other gigantic planetary units, as a result of that which some refer to as the “big-bang” theory. This is but one of many such universes that rotate around a gigantic Central Sun. This Sun is so colossal that each of the universes rotating around it in perfect order and sequence is as small in comparison as the electrons that spin around the nucleus of an atom. It takes our universe over 26,800 years to make one turn of its orbit around this great Central Sun. There are believed to be at least 100 million galaxies. The Milky Way alone, which includes our Sun, has approximately three billion similar stars or suns that have a least one satellite planet each, where life-forms have the capacity to exist.

There are presently known sources of concentrated energy scattered across the Universe at enormous distances up to ten billion light years away. These radiate electronic light waves of fantastic intensity. Such an incredible out-pouring of electric energy seems to indicate a mass of material at the source comparable to that of an entire galaxy of 100 billion stars! Even so, this Laser beam enormity in space is infinitesimal when compared to the whole, which makes up the great and infinite cosmos.

Around the Central Sun of our Universe is a huge electronic ring which flashes with perpetual motion and brilliancy, as though a thousand million suns were being woven into it, to feed its transcendent luster. From every part of this ring dart long broad shafts of light, sometimes forming into circles, small or great, whirling around the enormous girdle of the intelligent, scintillating, jewel-like opal-tinted flame of the Central Sun within. It is this nucleus of the great Sun-Globe itself, revolving upon its own axis, that constitutes the sublime scene - - the Center of the Universe - - the Cause of all Creation, the Universal Mind, the Supreme Principle, the Primal Cause, the Cosmic Field, the Divine Spirit, Infinite Intelligence, God the Father!

For millions of ages our Central Sun has absorbed out of the complex Cosmos, the First Great Cause known as throbbing, pulsating, harmonious emanations of electronic energy, which scientists today call the “steady-state” theory, the original source of which is unknown and beyond the comprehension of man. Even though the “why” of this great force may never be known to mankind, the “how” can and will be understood through scientific knowledge of the truth. There and there alone lies the only reality. This wise intelligence that pervades all space is consolidated by our Central Sun where it undergoes, continuously, regeneration and rebirth. Thus this gigantic relay station action as a phenomena of radiation is the Primal Cause of all creation.

Man has been created from and is a counterpart of this Source of Power. He is coexistent with it and draws to himself these electronic emanations from this aqueous reservoir, the Central Sun - - the Universal Mind.

The physical man is an intricate electronic device with a set of transistor-like cells built in from head to toe. The human body is composed of over eighty trillion of such electric cells. Each and every one of them vibrates with cosmic energy and is a permanently adjusted miniature receiver of electronic wave-forms from this Central Source - - the Universal Mind. The confederations of intelligent entities or cells which biologically formulates the total human anatomy, from the first to the last, is connected through the nervous system to the more sensitive cells of the brain, and culminates in a concentrated center in the frontal dome of the head. This, in the East, is known as the "Thousand Petaled Lotus", but in the West as a high-gain parabolic antenna of supreme sensitivity, which is electronically tuned to the incoming rays of the Infinite Intelligence. This concentration of Universal Energy is transmitted from this vital nerve-ending antenna to the cerebellum, in the back portion of the brain, and in turn to the ganglionic cellular mass at the back of the stomach, known as the solar plexus or abdominal brain. This mass in the solar plexus is an electronic marvel. It weighs only fifty ounces and consists of over 10 billion intelligent cells. This entire body system is known as the subconscious mind. Thus the subconscious mind of man is in complete attunement with and has every attribute of the Universal Mind at all times. Every member of the human family without exception is the recipient of this omnipresent flow of electronic Infinite Goodness.

The FIRST and foremost characteristic of the all-powerful subconscious mind is likened to a gigantic computer, fed by the all-encompassing information of thought-form intelligence. It is impersonal, undisturbed and fearless. It knows all, sees all, and is the sum total of all past, present and future knowledge because of its resonance with the great storehouse of information, the Universal Mind. SECONDLY, the subconscious mind contains superimposed thought-forms classified as finding origin out of inherited and environmental conditions much of which is negative in character, thus producing a posture which demands positive classification and proper refinement. Through the proper use of these TWO characteristics of the subconscious, total wisdom is at the disposal of man.

The conscious mind is your central of control. The cerebral-spinal system of the conscious mind, centered in the frontal portion of the brain, is known as the cerebrum. This cerebrum is the supreme ruler or high command of our mental world. Through this, our power to think, to will, to know, to choose and to deal with all incoming impressions gathered through the five senses is demonstrated. The conscious and the subconscious minds have an electronic complex for interaction so that thoughts may pass between the two systems as reflexes. Therefore every mental action constitutes a molecular impact on the twofold nervous systems of the conscious and the subconscious minds.

As an example of this reflex or molecular action between the two minds, the conscious mind can take command of the heretofore inert cells of the subconscious mind by superimposing mental images upon its mechanism. The conscious mind issues the command and the subconscious mind fulfills the order. The subconscious mind will find the solution to specific problems, but in doing so requires that complete preparation for mental activity be stipulated by the conscious mind. The object to be achieved must be clearly defined, analyzed and dissected as the basic material or the data to be processed for subconscious computer action and solution. When the subject under investigation or new knowledge is inspired within, you learn to investigate it; reason with it; examine it, to see if it has the freedom of truth. Your developed intuition will indicate the degree of its validity.

If you feel the intuitive ideas found in the conscious mind lack maturity, you may return them to their source in the subconscious for refinement. Since the subconscious has electronic contact with all knowledge, it continues to research your problem. After an appropriate time-lag the total concept by reflex action is returned to the conscious mind in final and concise form, ready for practical use and immediate action.

The subconscious has the eyes and ears of the video and audio tape recorder. It faithfully records every impact of the conscious mind, every shade of mind-sight, every form of expression. All is indelibly impressed for preservation and future use through electronic processing. Through reflex action, any portion of the tape spontaneously may be played back at any time or, through the action of the will, absolute recall is at your command. This power placed at the disposal of man is an unlimited resource - - no problem is too big to defy solution. If you bring proper application to bear, it will leap to your defense, particularly in time of crisis. It has the faculty of placating the antagonist and literally pours "oil on troubled waters". It takes a turbulent sea of troubles and converts them into the placid waters of contentment and self-assurance.

Thus far we have constructed a working and practical application of life-force in accordance with scientific phenomena. For further advancement it becomes necessary to prepare for the conquest of higher spiritual forces as a function of this life in its relation to eternity, a product of awareness or consciousness. In order to do this, one must have a flexible mind, open and ready to receive new knowledge. This one is in a position to discard worn-out concepts, which thorough the ages have held back mankind.

The single most important event in the life of the individual, in quest of advancement, is to develop an awareness of this relationship between the two minds. Your goal must be to understand that the function of the two minds in reality is one efficient and automatic amalgamation, under the guidance of Infinite Intelligence. Thereafter the comprehension of unified cosmic consciousness enables you to de-emphasize technical and philosophical explanations as indicated heretofore and you possess the magic of believing. Your absorbing interest is in the complete spiritual unification of life.

No man can comprehend this until he has trained his mind to grasp this unification through the deep silent and secret meditation from the center of his being which is tantamount to illumination. While it is an established fact that many especially endowed persons, such as Jeane Dixon, break through this barrier more readily than others, the fact remains that illumination is a legacy awaiting all mankind; more particularly those who desire it enough to work for it. The attainment of the goals delineated herein may require years before full inspiration will make its impact. If one stands firm, even though assimilation comes little by little, the comprehension of details will bring qualities of observation that will ultimately bloom into the attainment of these new faculties.

Progress is not for the purpose of developing sanctimonism or becoming a recluse from society, but rather to produce a wholesome state of mind. The mental level you develop establishes your environmental status now and in the hereafter.

In order to effectuate this, one must deal with first things first - - the problem of bringing this environmental and inherited self under control. When this is attained, it becomes an act of consciousness and enables you to become completely cohesive with the ecstasy of your resonance with the oneness of life.

Your understanding and proper application of this system causes you to travel your own appointed course and you do not permit world thought of limitation to hinder you. You push ahead toward a program of successful living in every pursuit of life. You step out of the character of that which you have been in times past, and live life in a new context. You lose the sense of importance of the conflicts in the material world. You ignore distractions by increasing your power of concentration. You cut off the supply line which feeds our fears, your prejudices, your disbeliefs, or personality conflicts. No one has power over you that you do not give him. Nothing has importance to you that you do not give it. The irritating part of a condition is not the situation itself, but our bestowing it with overly important qualities. You refuse to accept a phobia, an obsession or illness as a weapon or excuse in an attempt to solve life's problems. When we rebel against our suffering without the reason of truth, we intensify it. In an emotional state the gateway to the subconscious is completely receptive. Under such conditions we plant ideas and thoughts deep in the subconscious, whether they are desirable or not. What you "gaze" upon in picture form, you bring forth. Fear, hate, jealousy and anger precipitate wrong implantations and are completely destructive. In-fighting produces out-fighting. Exalt your enemy, then "lose him and let him go." Thereafter you have fulfilled your duty and you, as well as the adversary, are free. The truth cannot be established within until you have banished all self-imposed negative concepts. You can achieve this by maintaining non-attachment to the fruits of action which is the scientific way to avoid sorrow and a heavy heart. "Be still and know that I am God." Peace of mind is the result.

Look within to see God's presence. Far too often our early training has led us to seek far and wide this Supreme Force as a person or image. When you personalize, you idolize. Thus you have an empty idol and as a result you lose the ideal. The surest way to bring aid is to use the full impact of the cosmic power within your own being. There you designate in your subconscious mind's eye, as on the television screen, that which you desire. You may reinforce this desire through audio enunciation to make the picture completely vivid and clear. This is that which is known as creative prayer - - to completely outline the image. It opens up a whole new line of communication between you and the Father of Radiation through the Central Source. To create the image is to actually modulate the electronic waves of radiation, which bathe your being, into a picture form. The Divine Substance which permeates your every cell within is molded and fashioned through believing and knowing, and therefore becomes a form of answered prayer. The desire is placed in true form and instantly finds fulfillment.

You should then speak affirmatively of serenity, life, peace, harmony and indicate a forward-looking philosophical treatment of great truths.

These are excellent examples. "This day in every way Cosmic Force is making me better and better." "The Divine Spirit of the assured self transcends all distortion." "I am completely capable of succeeding in every effort that I truthfully affirm." "I am in resonance with the intelligence and wisdom that guides all my endeavors into correct and profitable channels." "I am God Power; I am fully successful and free from all matters of limitation." If we precipitate harmonious solutions in the attitude of prayer, we get harmonious results, not only leading people to us in large numbers, but overcoming every distasteful experience of life. It leads to love and the sorting and forgiving process, separating the positive from the negative. Thus you take conscious constructive control of your life and learn to dominate your environmental and inherited tendencies in the subconscious, achieving self-mastery and eventually "Supreme Wisdom".

In this state, the healing Force is now converting every cell, tissue, nerve, muscle and bone according to the excellence of the pattern established in the subconscious mind, and the vitality of the life principle is manifest in every atom of your being which restores health, harmony and peace. Your life is above turmoil; it is quiet, contemplative and compulsive, leading to joy, security, completeness, perfection, infinity, eternity. The body becomes young and vibrant. You cease to measure life by years and measure it only by itself. It is eternal, ever present and limitless. Man becomes conscious of the unfathomable - - the complete totality of God.

Obviously this goes far beyond the anthropomorphic concept of God. The understanding of this thesis reveals the true meaning of the assertion of the Master of Masters, when he said that all, along with him, are Sons of God and that no one at any time has seen the Father of radiation. You now know that you were created in the image that God-Mind decreed. You understand for a certainty that he who sees God in man has seen the Father. Man becomes the sole expression of the Infinite Creator. "I and the Father are One," becomes a truism.

In this state you have a Divine Monitor and learn to meditate in gratitude and to cultivate a sense of deep perception. The miracles of yesterday become your normal experience of today. The progressive comprehension of this equation constitutes and reinforces creative prayer. The understanding of this principle indicates "the love of God", within. The seeing or manifestation of this principle in others is to completely remove the veil and you recognize "God in every face". It is demonstrated as the first principle of "Love thy neighbor as thyself". This is the ultimate goal for all of humanity - - the path to attainment.

Political leaders, in times past, particularly in periods of stress, were moved and guided to action by this Supreme Principle. Washington, Franklin and Lincoln in the United States, as well as leaders throughout the world, both past and present, have had similar experiences testifying to the impact of such external wisdom.

Einstein, Edison and Tesla, to name just a few of recent day scientists, freely admitted to inspired ideas through the subconscious mind. Some space scientists "off the record" feel the presence of silent partners standing at their side.

In the new age that lies immediately ahead, through electronic instruments, direct communication between persons on the earth plane and those of the higher planes will become commonplace. This will solve forever the efficacy of the reality of life in other vibratory forms and the eternity of the human soul.

The goals of all religious thinking are the same - - to find God under Universal Law. Each shade of religious construction has rightly satisfied millions on this planet, Earth. However, there can be only one set of facts - - only one truth about the whole. Nothing can impede or destroy Truth. Truth is the essence of Infinity. There is only one Intelligence, one Consciousness, one Substance; all in one and one in all. This is the concept that will lift stumbling man and enable him to find his way in this modern world.

A summary of the spiritual truths, indicated heretofore, is found in this free translation of the Idyll of the White Lotus:

The soul of man is immortal, and its future is eternal, with a growth and splendor that has no limit. The principle which gives life dwells within and without and is undying as well as eternally beneficent; is not heard, nor seen, nor felt, but is perceived by the man who desires illumination.

Each man is his absolute Lawgiver, the dispenser of glory or gloom to himself, the decreor of his life, his reward, his punishment.

On the scientific side, we have attempted herein to extend the explanation of Einstein's Quantum Theory, which is the approach to electronics as the basis of life; namely, there can be no effective religion, science, social or philosophical structure, nor satisfying living, outside the indisputable and basic fact that there is oneness in all things. Thus the spiritual forces united with the scientific in outer space now become the essence of the inner life force of man.

Furthermore, your growth is in direct proportion to your degree of enlightenment concerning this Universal Principle. THIS IS THE TRUTH OF GOD. THIS IS THE NATURAL LAW OF SCIENCE. THIS IS THE ROAD TO ETERNITY.
